Dear Mrs Morgan,

I am writing inform you about the ever increasing climate crisis. The the rapidly rising temperatures are starting to have an effect on us; it is evident that we are over-using things such as: fossil fuels, travel by car and deforestation. As a consequence, ice caps are melting, wild fires are more frequent and drought are more severe - we need your help to save the planet. Also, the demands for energy, heating, travel by car and food are at an all time high

The problem of climate change is worsening at a rapid rate; I notify you that the problems are extremely disastrous, these include: the UK has lost 97% of glower meadows since 1937, polar animals have lost 9% of their habitats per decade and the world's oceans are the warmest since it was first recorded in 1880. If we were to stop: driving cars when we do not need them, turn off lights when not using them, turn off taps and planting more plants - if we were to do these things the world would be a much better place.

If I were you, I would try to encourage your constituents to solve this problem using your public voice

I hope I have highlighted the seriousness of this problem. With an upcoming election; I advise you address this problem in your statement.

I will be awaiting your response -

Your name
