Dear Mrs Morgan

I am writing to notify you about a global situation. Climate change. This is a major complication. Climate change alters you, me and every creature living. Animals and humans are being affected. Even though you may not be able to feel it, some creatures are already feeling the effects. An example: polar bears are left stranded on little pieces of ice. Creatures in the Amazon homes are getting destroyed.

All of this is clearly proof of climate change. Scientists are showing evidence of these big changes. Temperature is rising rapidly. Every year the temperature gradually increases 1°C a year.

You may not feel these changes but every small thing you do leads to a big problem like this. A bottle thrown into the ocean will probably catch onto an animal which doesn't end well for them.

Thank you for reading and I will be eagerly waiting for your response.
Yours sincerely
